AWFUL CRIME AT BARTOW

THE CRIMINAL MAY BE BURNED AT THE STAKE

Young Wife of Prominent Citizen Outraged, Murdered and Her Body Mutilated by a Young Negro—Another Negro Witnessed the Crime—Posses with Bloodhounds will Have the Fiend Before Daylight—Arrangements Made for Terrible Punishment
(Tampa Tribune)

Bartow, May 28.—Fred Rochelle, a negro sixteen years old, this morning assaulted Mrs. Rosa Taggart, twenty-eight years old, wife of a prominent baker, and one of the most respected ladies of the town, executed his foul design successfully, and cut his victim's throat from ear to ear, and then horribly mutilated her features and body with his knife. The scene of the assault was a creek, one mile from Bartow, where Mrs. Taggart had been in the habit of going alone to fish. Posses from Bartow and all the surrounding towns, with two packs of bloodhounds, are after the negro, and he will be caught before morning. When caught, he will be brought to Bartow, and burned at the stake in the court house square.

Story of the Crime

The assault, outraging, murder and mutilation of Mrs. Taggart by Fred Rochelle has stirred Bartow and the surrounding country into a frenzy of excitement. Business has been suspended, and every able-bodied citizen is out in pursuit of the fiend.

The commission of the crime was witnessed by another negro, who, fearing that if he interfered, he would be accused of complicity, ran at once to the home of Mr. Milam, the nearest white man to the scene, and told him what he had seen. Milam went at once to the creek, and found the body of Mrs. Taggart. After outraging her the negro had cut her throat, cut off her nose, and otherwise mutilated her person. His intention was evidently to throw the body into the creek, but when he saw the other negro running away, he also took flight.

Rochelle first went to the house of his mother, in the negro settlement of Bartow, where he changed his bloody clothing, and told his mother what he had done. She hurried to a livery stable and tried to hire a horse, upon which her son could escape. She couldn't get the horse, and returned home, advising the boy to run. This he did, going toward Homestead, which is four miles distant from Bartow.

Meanwhile Mr. Milam had reached Bartow with the news, and the town went wild with excitement. Men left their stores open, seized their guns, mounted their horses, and started after the fugitive.

An inquest was held at the creek and Dr. F. M. Wilson testified that the crime of murder had been preceded by one more horrible. The eye witness of the crime was positive that the fiend was Fred Rochelle.

By 3 p. m. there were over a hundred men on the trail, and packs of bloodhounds had been secured from Pebble and Mulberry. The report soon reached Bartow that a posse headed by a Mr. Bivens, had caught sight of the fleeing negro, and that Bivens had shot at him twice. At Lakeland it was stated that the negro had been caught and that a public barbecue would occur in the square at Bartow, with the negro as the chief actor.

Lakeland was greatly excited also, and a large party of men went from there to Bartow on the regular train tonight, having arranged for a special train to bring them back after the exercises were over.

PHOSPHATE VS. TURPENTINE

The Star Wants to Know Why Fish is Made of One and Fowl of the Other

In the senate Tuesday Senator Harris offered an amendment to Chambers' convict bill, that nothing in the bill should be construed so as to interfere with bids now in the hands of the board of state institutions.

If passed it meant that the phosphate miners would again control the convict labor. It was voted down.

Among remarks made by Senator Kirk, of Hernando, are the following:

He appealed to senators in the name of humanity, in the name of Florida, to kill this amendment. That the convicts were ruining the industry in our state and if they should be continued in it, the riches of our state would be gone and her citizens have received no benefit.

The turpentine men would pay as much for convicts as the phosphate men, and they are let to these men they would hurt nobody and no industry.

What the Star would like to know: Is not Chambers' bill special legislation? Why discriminate against phosphate to the benefit of the turpentine farms? If it is "free labor" that is demanded, why not treat all parties alike? In which case, both phosphate and turpentine interests would have to go into the market and bid for such labor as they need. The convicts could go on the public roads. As it now stands, it looks to the Star like a very broad and pointed piece of "class legislation," which would not stand the test of the courts.

Of course the reasoning is specious. "With convict labor you ruin the price of phosphate, hence take away the 'ruin.' But to save the state $400,000 give them to the turpentine farms, but as to the real principle involved, free labor to all and special favors to none, that is a matter of no consequence.
